Webinars for leaders

AI & Assessment – A pragmatic case for schools
Ben Lawless (Lawless Learning) responds to concerns about AI-supported writing assessment, showing how it can strengthen teacher judgement rather than replace it and free up time for the teaching that actually moves students forward.

Leading school-wide improvement in writing
Getting writing results to lift across an entire school is hard. Two leaders who’ve done it join us to talk through what worked. Hear how they rolled out a research-based approach, brought staff along through the change and kept results improving over time.

Webinars for teachers

Top Tips for NAPLAN Writing Success
Get our top tips for lifting student writing before NAPLAN. Try a classroom activity you can use straight away and see how our AI-powered assessment tool points you to exactly where to focus your teaching, using insights aligned to the NAPLAN rubric.

Live lessons

Book Week live lessons
Watch your students read like writers. Across two live sessions, we’ll use three roles from our Reading Circles resource to unpack the opening chapters of two texts from the CBCA 2026 Book of the Year shortlist.

Seven Steps Workshops

Workshop One: Seven Steps to Transform Writing
Learn the full Seven Steps approach, with activities you can use in class the next day – for teachers new to the Seven Steps.

Workshop Two: Putting It All Together
Take the approach further with full texts, informative and persuasive writing. For teachers who’ve already learnt the Seven Steps.

Applying the Seven Steps with Beginner Writers (Online)
An online session for Seven Steps teachers who want to adapt it for beginner writers.
