In our school there is not enough colour and colour can change our moods, from sad to happy. Teachers can wear what ever they want, but why can't we?

AS a child who has attended more than one school, I have seen the effects of taking away our freedom of choice. Having a uniform selected for us robs us of our freedom of expression and individuality. In life we should always be able to choose our own creativity. Creativity brings out our emotions.

Creativity brings out our inner-self and by doing that it shows our moods, feelings, emotions and attitude and that means with out talk people will see how you feel. When we wear colours it makes the world more colourful. When I wear my school uniform it, makes me feel strictly boring and unhappy. I also believe that a lot of other children, feel the same way.

In conclusion, I truly believe that we can make our school a better, brighter cheerful place by not having a school uniform and that means we can show our inner self from with freedom and self expressions.
We can make the world a happier better place with more colour
